Profiling or automated decision making

We use Learning Analytics, which uses an algorithm to help identify your level of engagement with the college. This system creates a score that is used by academic and support staff to identify if you may benefit from additional support.

There will be no decisions or interactions made only by automated means, there will always be a human decision involved when any contact or offers of support are made to you.

You can read more about this in our Learning Analytics Privacy Notice.

Failure to provide personal data

If you do not provide personal data that is required by NCL for a lawful purpose or to fulfil our public task, NCL may be prevented from complying with our legal obligations and may not be able to provide you with the course for which you have applied or enrolled. In some cases, this could have an effect on your continued studies with us or lead to the withdrawal of any offer of study made.

Retention of personal data

We will only retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes outlined in the notice, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, audit, or reporting requirements

Student records are retained for 6 years after the academic year you leave.

After this time a legacy student record is retained with minimum data to allow verification of study dates, course and outcome.

Your rights

You have rights in relation to the personal data we use. You can access information on these rights and how to use them on the Data Protection section of our website.
